Website redesign - content decisions

Date: 17 October 2026 Status: working review document; decisions below do not change the website automatically.

Direction

Start barebones. Keep the public pages clear and useful; add detail deliberately. Preserve the existing website infrastructure and working content routes while simplifying what visitors see.

This document separates:

- Confirmed: choices already made in the website discussions.
- Current: what the redesign implements today.
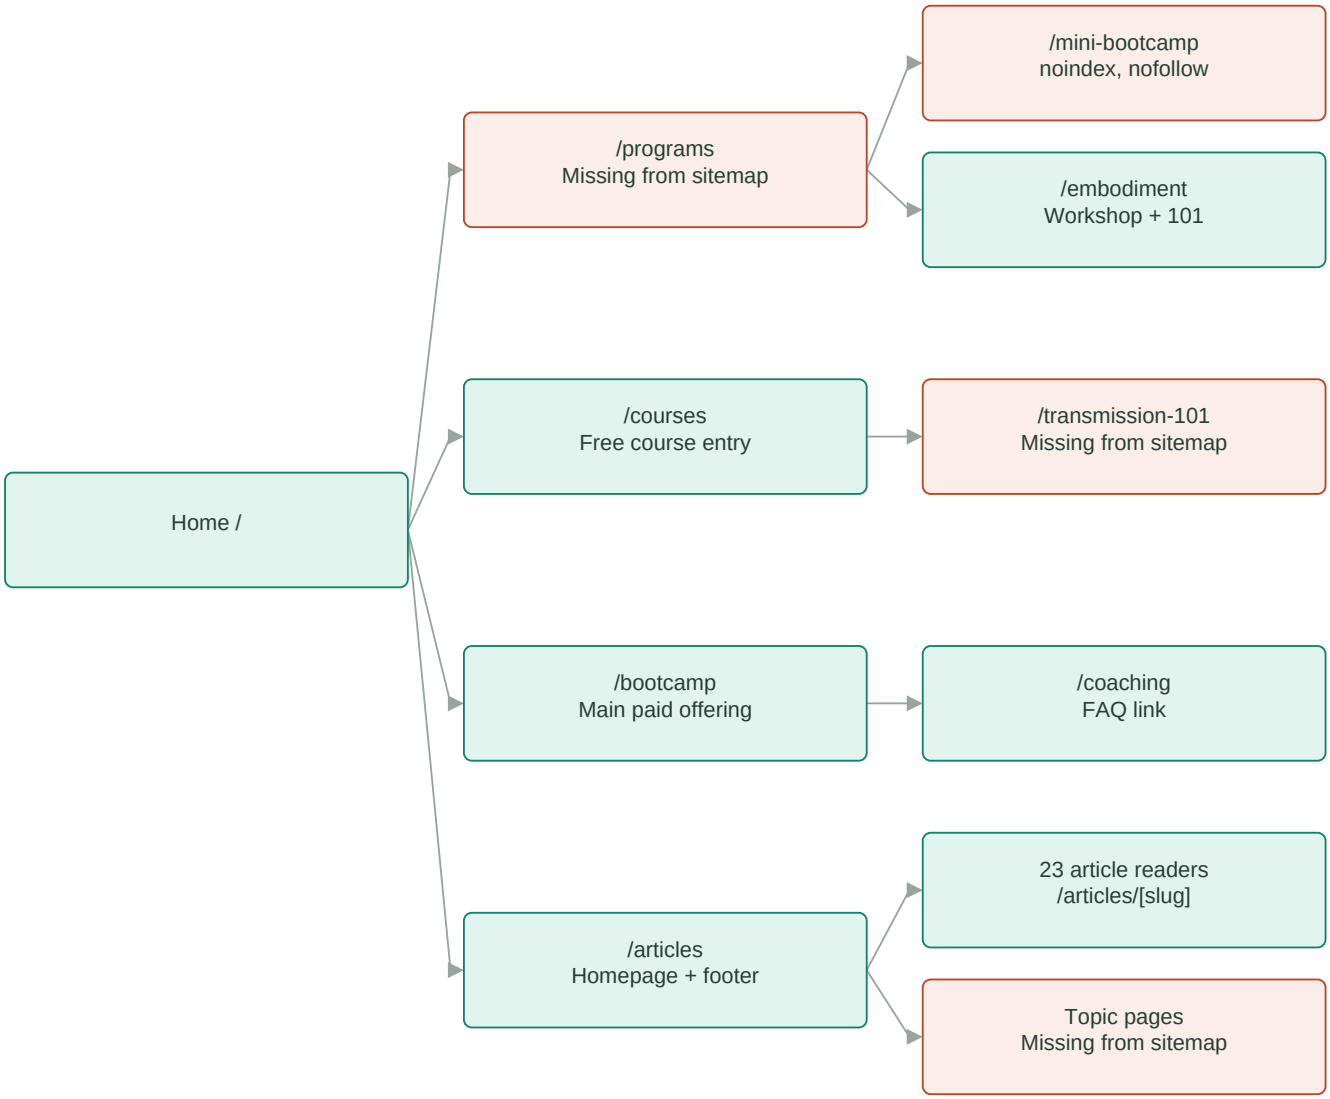
- Proposed: the minimum content to keep; open for review.
- Pending: facts or policies that need confirmation.

Use the decision fields one at a time. Leaving something blank means it remains undecided.

1. Old site topology

Read top to bottom. Arrows show the main visitor links; repeated links are omitted. Teal = main visitor route, coral = a known item to review, gray = a secondary or external destination. These colors do not certify SEO health.



Programs also links to Bootcamp and Transmission 101; Courses also links to Embodiment. Those repeated links are omitted to keep the branches readable.

Away from the main visitor path:

Group	Destinations	Note
Section archives	`/view`, `/cohort`, `/spotlight`, `/essays`	In the old sitemap; absent from the main navigation
Learning	Transmission 101 course and five lesson readers	In the old sitemap; separate from the signup landing page
Email access	`/courses/library`	Unlisted; link delivered by Kit
External	Store (external) / YouTube (external) / Instagram (external)	Header and/or footer destinations
Legal	Terms / Privacy / Refund Policy	Footer links

The old homepage also contained cohort announcements, a free-course preview, recent articles, a dissertations placeholder, and a newsletter. Its footer linked to Articles, YouTube, Terms, Privacy, Refund Policy, Instagram, company details, and contact email.

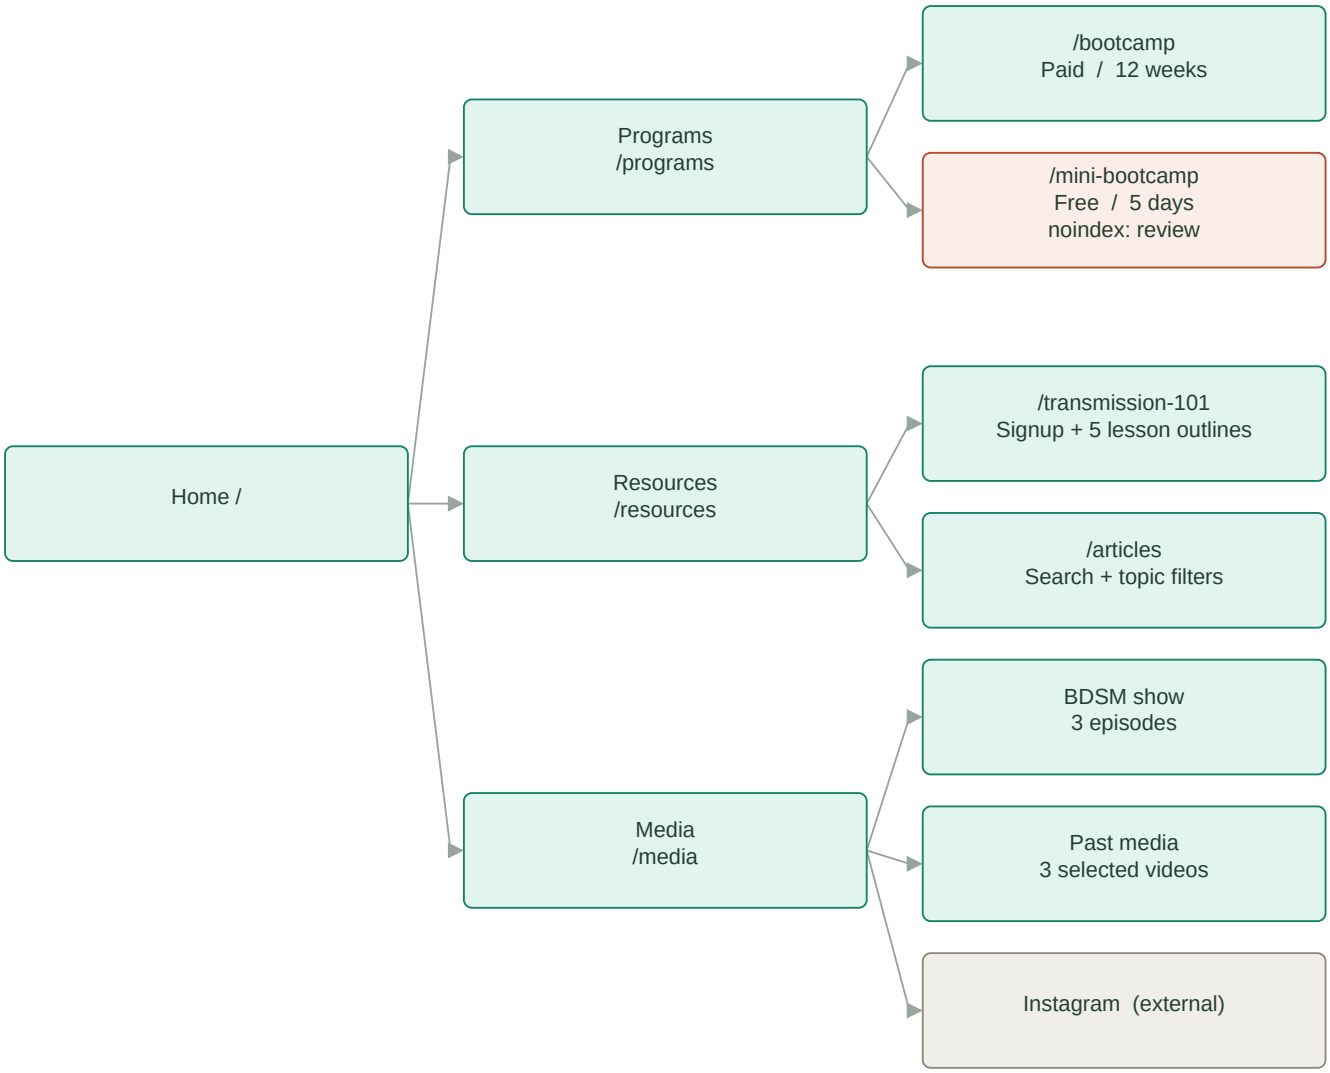
Supporting routes are kept separate from the visitor map so existence is not confused with navigation:

Group	Existing routes
Public offerings	`/bootcamp`, `/mini-bootcamp`, `/coaching`, `/embodiment`
Writing	`/articles`, `/articles/[slug]`, `/articles/topics/[tag]`; section archives `/view`, `/cohort`, `/essays`, `/spotlight`
Course access	`/transmission-101`; `/courses/library` is unlisted and emailed after signup
Transmission 101	`/courses/transmission-101-staying-present`, its `/[lesson]` readers and `/debrief`
Illumination 101	`/courses/illumination-101` and its `/[lesson]` readers
Recordings	`/courses/videos/[package]`, its `/[video]` readers and `/playlists/[playlist]`; `/videos` is the legacy video entry
Team and other	`/team`, `/team/[initiate]` (promotion controlled by flag), `/lab/mandala`

The course library is unlisted, not protected by a server authentication gate.

2. New site topology - current redesign

This is the replacement inside the existing Next.js app, reviewed through `c1885e7`. Local review: http://127.0.0.1:8765. Read the three main branches first; email access and footer links sit below the map.



BDSM show, Past media, and Instagram are sections of `/media`, not separate pages.

Below the main map	Next step
Course signup	Kit welcome email -> unlisted `/courses/library` -> courses and lessons
Article archive	`/articles` -> 23 complete article readers
Shared footer	Newsletter / Terms / Privacy / Refund Policy / social links / contact
Existing secondary routes	Coaching, Embodiment, learning, recordings, team, and other routes remain available

- The homepage also links directly to Bootcamp and Mini Bootcamp, and participant stories link to their original videos.
- The course landing has exactly one email form inside the hero. After confirmation, the existing Kit welcome sequence delivers the unlisted library link; the full courses, lessons, and playback remain available.
- The shared footer includes Terms, Privacy, and Refund Policy on the current origin. Those pages use the Field Guide presentation with unchanged policy text. The course landing uses its hero form instead of repeating the footer signup.

- Coaching and Embodiment survive by URL but are not promoted in the new primary navigation. Basecamp remains hidden.
- Supporting writing, learning, playback, team, legal, and other existing routes in the table above remain available. The review decisions below are unchanged.

URL continuity

Old or prototype URL	Current destination / behavior
`/courses`	`/resources`; child learning routes remain available
`/journal/`	`/articles/`
`/conversation`	`/media`
`/field-guide/*`	Matching clean routes; journal/conversation map to articles/media
`/pricing`	`/bootcamp?tab=pricing`, scrolling to tuition
`/clips/`	`/courses/videos/`
`/ppw`	`/mini-bootcamp`
`/ppw-package-april-2026`	Full Transmission 101 course

3. Confirmed choices

- [x] Keep the homepage short: invitation, offerings, participant proof, mailing list.
- [x] Use Field Guide as the primary visual direction.
- [x] Header: Programs, Resources, Media; no Contact or standalone Blog item.
- [x] Resources uses columns, not tabs; the course has its own page.
- [x] Course signup sits inside the hero, with one course form.
- [x] Media uses columns, with the BDSM show in its own section.
- [x] Keep Basecamp hidden and remove Embodiment from primary promotion.
- [x] Show tuition only at the end of the Bootcamp page.
- [x] Preserve the original app, analytics, Kit delivery, content, playback, hosting configuration, and URL continuity.

4. Proposed barebones content

These are proposals for the minimum useful pages, not instructions to restore every old section.

Home	What CC is; invitation; two offerings; participant stories; mailing list	Curriculum, full schedule, tuition, long FAQs
Programs	Clear paid/free distinction, duration, next dates, links	Duplicate detail-page copy

Bootcamp	Who it serves; aim; what training involves; practical commitment; confirmed schedule; application next step; tuition/inclusions last	Long comparison tables, repeated sales sections, unsupported outcome claims
Mini Bootcamp	What it is; free/five days; confirmed dates/time/platform; simple week outline; registration status	Long duplicated Bootcamp explanations
Transmission 101	Brief explanation of transmission; teacher; five-lesson preview; inline signup and delivery expectations	Separate repeated signup blocks
Resources	Course preview plus blog sidebar	Future-course placeholders
Articles	Searchable archive; author/date; complete readers	Extra editorial taxonomies unless useful
Media	A small selection of videos; BDSM show destination; Instagram	A duplicated full video library

5. Content decision queue

For each item, choose keep minimal / add now / later / omit and leave notes. For policy items, use confirm before publishing facts.

A. Explain the practice

A1 - What is transmission? The old course landing explained it; the new one jumps directly from the hero to lesson outlines.

Proposal: add one short explanation on the course page.

Decision: _____ Notes / approved wording: _____

A2 - Bootcamp curriculum and journey. The old page named four pillars and a staged twelve-week progression. The new page gives three broader approach descriptions.

Proposal: a compact curriculum summary on Bootcamp; confirm any week-by-week promises before including them.

Decision: _____ Notes: _____

B. Make attendance and enrollment clear

B1 - Schedule. Restore only confirmed information: cohort start/end, daily commitment, session windows, weekly events, timezone/platform, and capacity if relevant. Mini's daily time is currently absent.

Decision: _____ Confirmed details / owner: _____

B2 - Application status. The existing public site advertises priority registration; the redesign says the new form is being prepared and offers email contact. The meeting said Lori would supply the registration link.

Decision: _____ Current registration link / status / owner: _____

B3 - Tuition and inclusions. Confirm price, payment plans, what continues after the cohort, and any private teachings. Old payment deadlines, referral discounts, and application requirements are not automatically current policy.

Decision: _____ Confirmed inclusions / terms / owner: _____

B4 - FAQ. The new Bootcamp page keeps six practical questions out of the old seventeen.

Proposal: answer readiness, transmission, commitment, and access afterward without restoring the entire old FAQ.

Decision: _____ Questions to keep: _____

C. Help visitors find the next step

C1 - Links between offerings. The old course/Mini pages invited visitors onward to Bootcamp; Bootcamp also pointed to trying Mini first.

Proposal: one quiet next-step link on each detail page.

Decision: _____ Notes: _____

C2 - Coaching. The page survives but lacks a clear entry from the redesigned public pages.

Decision: _____ Placement / season status: _____

C3 - Store. The old Store link is absent. Earlier discussion left this for checking with John.

Decision: _____ Placement / owner: _____

C4 - Article and video discovery. Articles remain complete; archive cards lost authors/dates and search covers less text. The full recording library survives, while Media is curated.

Decision: _____ Restore authors/dates? _____ Link to full recordings? _____

6. Technical items kept separate from content decisions

Starting barebones does not mean dropping working infrastructure.

Item	Review status
GA4	Existing initialization/property retained; external ingestion not verified by local checks
Kit	Original form ID and submission handler retained; welcome sequence/library-delivery wiring preserved; external email delivery not exercised
Learning content	Course routes, lesson bodies, playlists, and playback retained
Article content	All 23 source articles retained
Hosting	Existing Next.js/Netlify setup retained; production not deployed by these local iterations
Legal and URLs	Legal pages and legacy aliases retained
Social previews	Audit found missing `og:image` on redesigned public pages; fix before release
Mini indexing	Existing `noindex` remains; decide whether the public offering should be searchable
Signup analytics	Custom signup-success attribution was absent before redesign; separate improvement, not lost functionality
